

Caruso Sings Turiddu Again After 3 Years

Double Bill of "Cavaleria," Preceded by "Hansel and Gretel," Draws a Great Audience to the Metropolitan Opera House—Both Performances Excellent

BY SYLVESTER RAWLING.

CARUSO was Turiddu in Mascagni's "Cavaleria" at the Metropolitan Opera House last night for the first time since 1908. He sang with all the opulence and brightness of voice that was his habit then, and acted with far greater freedom. His triumph with the audience was fairly earned. Komy Destina was the commanding Santuzza that she always is, singing gloriously and creating an almost uncanny illusion of realism. Dini Gilly, a manly Alfio, was in fine voice. Florence Wickham was a pretty and comely Lucia, and Jeanne Manbourg, a sterling Lucia, save that she permitted her face to appear too youthful, was a convincing Lucia. The chorus sang sonorously and acted well, but Mr. Sturand, who conducted what was otherwise a sterling performance, gave the orchestra full swing and sometimes fairly submerged the singers.

Before the vehement, passionate, tragic opera of the modern Italian school, there was presented that beautiful, appealing, and simple German fairy story of "Hansel und Gretel," by Humperdinck. Alfred Hertz conducted with the devotion that he has shown from the first, and with the same success. To listen to the orchestra alone was a treat. The cast was the familiar one of Marie Matfield and Bella Allen in the title parts, Albert Reiss as the Witch, Otto Goritz as Peter, Florence Wickham as Gertrude, Henrietta Wakefield as the Sandman, and Anna Case as the Dowager. They gave a fine performance. But Mr. Reiss overacted and underplayed the part of the Witch. His intelligence and ability are so marked that it seemed a pity.

There was a crowded house, for which the presence in the cast of Caruso might alone account, but a double bill is always alluring. The combination of "Hansel und Gretel" and "Cavaleria," or "Hansel und Gretel" and "Pagliacci," is far better because of the contrast in style and story than "Cavaleria" and "Pagliacci" together, both being so much alike.

HAROLD BAUER DELIGHTS ANOTHER LARGE AUDIENCE.

Harold Bauer, the pianist, gave a second recital at Carnegie Hall yesterday afternoon before a large audience that was held under his spell for two hours. His programme began with a set of Brahms's waltzes, op. 39, and included Mozart's sonata in D major, Cesar Franck's prelude, aria and finale, Schumann's "Kinderjohann" and "Tochter," and Chopin's scherzo in C sharp minor. Mr. Bauer, whose playing of the "Kinderjohann" was especially delightful, seemed to reach the heart of each composition. His interpretations are poetic as well as virile. The audience evidently thought it a treat to hear him and pressed so unanimously for more that he added extra numbers.

Winning Stockholders File Petition Against Bankruptcy Decision. The Stockholders' Protective Committee of the Nevada-Utah Mines and Smelters Corporation, which was adjudged bankrupt Jan. 15, has filed a petition in the United States District Court for an order directing Heavy Metal, receiver of the company, to permit the stockholders' committee to inspect all the books and records of the company. The petition will be presented in motion on Jan. 22.

It is alleged in the petition that the corporation is not insolvent, and that it was put into bankruptcy by collusion between the officers of the corporation and the principal alleged creditors for the purpose of forcing the stockholders to accept a proposed plan of adjustment of the affairs of the corporation which is favorable to the alleged creditors and

Are Your Glasses Broken?

Three reasons why you should come to Macy's to have them repaired.

- 1.—Accuracy. We employ only expert opticians.
- 2.—Quality. We utilize only the finest quality materials.
- 3.—Economy. Our prices are lower than in the city.
- 4.—Celerity. We have our own workshop on the premises.

When we say that our prices are low in the city we are striking a comparison with other reliable optical shops which give service equal to ours and which also can be depended on to turn out glasses absolutely true to prescription.

As an illustration, lenses which cost 44c at Macy's are obtainable anywhere else at less than 80c to 75c. If your saving is 12% to 20% on this, imagine what you save on a complicated prescription, which is often used as a justification for an exorbitant price.
